The screenshot shows a Mac OS X desktop environment. At the top, the 'System Preferences' menu bar is visible. Below it, a Google search page is open in a browser window, displaying search results for 'macbook pro turn off microphone'. The search results include several links, such as 'Turning off by...', 'Disable the in...', 'How to Disabl...', and 'Help..Can't turn off int. mic when using garageband... - MacRumors...'. Overlaid on the search page is the 'Sound' system preferences window. The 'Input' tab is selected, showing a table with one entry: 'Internal microphone' (Built-in). Below the table, there are sliders for 'Input volume' and 'Input level', a checkbox for 'Use ambient noise reduction', a dropdown menu for 'Use audio port for:' set to 'Sound Output', and sliders for 'Output volume' and a 'Mute' checkbox. The 'Show volume in menu bar' checkbox is also checked.
